Publishers' Preface to Fourth Edition,

The third edition of BERING'S CONDENSED MATERIA MEDICA being exhausted the question of a. fourth edition confronted the publishers. After due consideration it was determined to let the work of those masters in Homoeopathy, Hering and Farrington, remain as they left it. Homoeopathy is not a shifting changing science. This book is a true exponent of Homoeopathy, and while it might be enlarged by the addition of new remedies it could not be improved upon in its sphere—A CONDENSED MATERIA MEDICA. So the old work is again brought out, unchanged. It is a book culled by Hering from the manuscript of his ten volume Guiding Symptoms, and it contains the cream of that large work. As Hering says: "Clinical experience only can verify symptoms obtained through provings;" and further: "We have now garnered at least a fair percentage of good wheat." That "good wheat" is to be found in this volume—a volume that, perhaps, contains fewer unverified symptoms than any other published; indeed it has been said that every symptom in this book has been verified at the bedside. Be that as it may, the BERING'S CONDENSED MATERIA MEDICA is undoubtedly one of the most helpful books to the physician ever published.
