SECTION-1

WHAT IS HOMOEOPATHY

There are various schools of medicine, of which Allopathy is the predominant one, which the suffering people follow to get relief or cure. Ayurveda is the next popular system, being the ancient Indian system. Other systems such as Reiki, Acupressure and acupuncture are other systems. However every impartial unprejudiced observer will testify that Homoeopathy with its 200 years old history of successful performance in the treatment of a variety of ailments, some of which other systems have failed to tackle, and with several advantages over others, offers an ideal system for alleviation of the sufferings of the vast Indian populace, living in far-flung villages which the "modern" system is unable to reach.

ADVANTAGES OF HOMOEOPATHY : Homoeopathy has manifold advantages which compare favourably with every other system of medicine. They are :

- (a) The treatment of the patient can start immediately after taking the symptoms, analysing them and finding the curative remedy - without waiting for laboratory investigations and other time consuming and expensive investigations such as X-ray, Cat-scan, Sonography, etc. This is so because the selection of the remedy is based on the peculiar symptoms of the selection of the remedy is based on the peculiar symptoms of the patient, not "diagnostic symptoms".

- (b) Homoeopathic medicines have no "side-effects" as the doses are of infinitesimal potencies and controlled in repetition; the administration of the medicine is stopped when improvement begins, instead of a "Course of a week or fortnight".
- (c) The cost of Homoeopathic treatment is very, very low as compared with the cost involved in other systems of medicine. Hence, it is the ideal system of treatment for India's teeming millions with low standard of living.
- (d) The "sweet pills" of Homoeopathy are well accepted, even sought after by the children.
- (e) It is found in a number of cases that the Allopathic doctor says "There is nothing wrong with you", but the patient feels "I am not feeling well at all." But Homoeopathy, based as it is on patient's subjective symptoms, can easily help such cases.
- (f) The medicines have no "Expiry" date.

Hahnemann, a brilliant scholar, a graduate in Allopathy, a linguist to boot, was disappointed with his practice of Allopathy, and thus took to translating medical books, during the course of which he came across the statement that the Cinchona Bark

- much remained unpassed. Stools dry, knoity like sheep-dung.
- Merc. sol. Stool painful, scanty, bloody, greenish mucus with tenesmus and "never-get-done" feeling. Rectal tenesmus with tenesmus of bladder.
- Natmm mur. Constipation on alternate days from inactivity of rectum. Stool dry, hard, crumbling, tearing the anus. Nat. mur is very thirsty; desires salty food.
- Magnesia mur. Constipation of infants during dentition. Passing only small quantity. Stools knotty, crumbling at the verge of anus.
- Nux vomica Fruitless (ineffectual) urging to stool. Feels stool remained unexpelled. Relieved after stool.
- Opium Obstinate constipation; Stool black, hard, sheep-dung like. Stool involuntary after fright. Intestinal spasms; child cries day and night.
- Silicea Stool comes out with difficulty but when partly expelled recedes; retained for fear of pain.
- Sulphur Habitual constipation. Odour of stools follows him as if he has soiled himself. Redness around the amis with itching.
