PAIN IN ABDOMEN OR SUSPECTED TUMOR

Case II.—Murex Pur: Mrs. K, aged 40, a midwife. She complained of the abdomen; she believed she had a tumor. Severe knife-cutting pain in the region of uterus running up to left mamma; pains, undefined, running up and through pelvis, worse lying down, aching up and through the pelvis, worse lying down, aching in the sacrum, dragging down in the uterine region as if the uterus would escape. Empty, "all-gone" feeling in the stomach. Greenish-yellow leucorrhoea, with itching in labia and mons veneris; intense sexual desire. The os uteri was said to be ulcerated and eroded, and it was sensitive to touch. The contact of the finger with cervix brought on the sharp pain that she described as running to the left mamma. The uterus was enlarged and indurated. She had been the mother of several children; had had several abortions, and was accustomed to hard work. She had been treated locally by a specialist of acknowledged ability, and she had taken many remedies of his selection as well as from her own medicine case, all very low. Her catamenia quite normal.

To take up the important and guiding features of this case we must compare several remedies, but principally Murex and Sepia.

The cutting pain in the uterus has been found under Curare. Murex and Sepia, but Murex is the only one producing a cutting pain in the uterus going to the left mamma.

The "all-gone" empty feeling in the stomach is characteristic of Murex., Phos. and Sepia.

Throbbing in the uterus, belongs only to Murex. The dragging down is common to both Murex and Sepia, but the sexual teasing only to Murex. Both have a yellowish green leucorrhoea. Pain in sacrum is common to Murex, Sepia and many others. "Enlargement of bowels" is found in Allen under Murex, not mentioned in Minton's Uterine Therapeutics. The pains in Murex go upward and through, worse while lying down. In Sepia the patient is better lying down, and the pains go around.

Murex 200, one dose was given. She was much worse for several days. Then improvement went on for two weeks. The remedy was again repeated. One year later she complained of a return of her symptoms. One dose was followed by relief, since which time she has made no complaint, but praises the individualizing method.

ABDOMINAL TUMOR.

M. A. W., aet. 30, asks treatment for abdominal tumor, which is large enough to give her the appearance of being about eight months pregnant. She is a house maid, and her friends will not go out with her fearing that people will think they are associating with an unmarried pregnant woman. She had consulted two surgeons who refused to operate because of the rigidity and extensive adhesions, and also because of the sickly aspect of the girl. The face was indeed waxy and sickly looking. These surgeons told her she would die from the tumor.

The tumor was first noticed five years ago. It became prominent on the right side of the uterus and extended up to the pelvis; was said to be movable until two years ago. The uterus is now immovable and the tumor which hangs over the right side of the pelvis is very hard, as large as a child's head, and cannot be made to move in any direction.

June 1st, 1888.—Pain in the pelvis now and then. Swelling in the pit of the stomach not due to the tumor. Swelling of the feet, indenting on pressure. Constant congestive headaches which she could give no description of, only "it aches all over." Eats but little, and what she eats causes nausea. Constipation; no desire for stool; takes physic, hence no modalities of value. Goes two or three weeks without a stool. Always feels a constriction about the waist, which most likely is due to pressure of tumor, hence it is not a valuable symptom. Sensation of great fullness after eating, and she mentions above that she eats but little. Menses fairly regular "with cramps." She has not drunk water for eight years, as it makes her sick. Feet burn so that she must take off her slippers to cool them. Starts in sleep, and when awake starts at the slightest noise. Restless sleep. Pain in left side of abdomen. Teeth decayed when young. They are dark and bad looking. Wants hot things; cannot take cold things into the stomach. Pain in the stomach after cold things. Pain and nausea after water, cold or warm. Pain in left groin. She had this pain before the tumor was felt. Lye. cm; one dose, and Sac-Lac, morning and night, dry on the tongue.

July 23rd.—The remedy increased the symptoms so much that she was alarmed and would not return for many weeks, but now is so much better in a general way that she returns to report and ask for more medicine. Upon close questioning it was found that for a week or more her symptoms were on the increase. Her stomach symptoms at first grew worse, then improved and now are worse again. Lye. mm. She got one dose and s. 1.

Aug. 2d—Reports that all the symptoms are better, and she is feeling greatly improved.

Aug. 31st.—Pain in pit of stomach. Pain in forehead, vertex and temples. Bowels no better. If she drinks water she feels so full and gets cramps. Sleepless; starts suddenly. S. L. No change in tumor.

Sept. 15th.—Feet do not swell now. She vomits and has a pain in stomach after eating or drinking. Lye. mm.

Oct. 28th.—Symptoms all passed away, except that she has a pain in right side, in the tumor.
