THE PROVING OF COCA-COLA

The proving of Coca-Cola was conducted during my San Francisco seminar in May, 1994. The participants of the seminar were given one dose of the drug in the 30 C potency. They were instructed to note their symptoms over the next two days, whether they took the dose or not. The participants were not aware what substance was being proved. On the last day of the seminar, they gave up their notes. After these were read, we had a collective discussion of the symptomatology, and at the end of it, I told them the name of the remedy.

The drug was prepared at the Hahnemann Clinical Pharmacy, California, by Mr. Michael Quinn.

Note: The provers are here denoted by numbers. This proving being unsupervised and the group being large, it was difficult to know the provers on an individual basis. The symptoms that are reported here are taken directly from the notes that they had submitted to me. Since the symptoms were recorded over a period of only two days, and since many of the provers did not mention when the symptoms were experienced, information regarding the time of onset of the symptoms has not been included.
