i Introduction

Human beings are the most mysterious and miraculous organisms. Mysterious because from the infinitesimal cell a giant develops having infinite number of cells. By observation one thinks human beings are bodies of matter but by perception one realizes that we are universal beings of dynamic nature. Someone has truly said that man is the Micro-cosm, the little universe having the promise and potentialities of the Macro-cosm of the universe. Man displays similar phenomena and laws that govern him which are found and govern the universe. Chromosomes govern the phenomena of life of the individual like atoms govern the life of the elements and compounds. Mutations, flux, permutations and combinations are perceptible both in man and the universe. Man as well as the universe is unscrutinable, unfathomable and unpredictable. Hence man can never become the master of universe and has to learn from its laws how to model our understanding. Man has to acknowledge universe or nature as our master, guru and guide for understanding the human nature.

Health and disease, pleasure and pain, light and darkness are natural phenomena. If one of them was absent we could not perceive the other. In fact, disease, pain and death are the necessities that instigate us to seek true understanding and knowledge to achieve radiant health, unbound pleasure and light of truth. Acute and chronic diseases, Exogenous and Endogenous causes, Dynamis and personality were perceived in our investigation to understand the phenomena of disease.

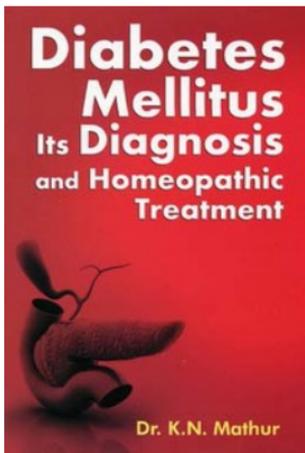

Diabetes Mellitus which was once a very puzzling and incurable disease is now fully understood and can be prevented if we stop legally and socially the marriages between the diabetics and the carriers of diabetes with one another, thus preventing the reproduction of genes having diabetic tendency.
