HOW TO FIND OUT THE CONSTITUTIONAL OR INDICATED REMEDY

I have already provided in the first volume which constitution needs what remedy, but here I have tried to explain the procedure of finding out constitutional or indicated remedy practically. In homoeopathy we cure the patient and not the disease. It means we take the total symptoms of the patient to find his constitutional or indicated medicine. Therefore we include all his present symptoms and troubles, inherited qualities, his reactions towards environmental conditions, his likings and desires etc, as the total symptoms of the patient to select his constitutional remedy. In the following cases a practical technique has been given for finding out the indicated medicine which should be followed strictly in all cases for better results.

A lady of 38 years had -

- (A) Gastric troubles
- (B) Low blood pressure
- (C) Menstrual troubles
- (D) Burning sensations
- (E) Desires or likings

ACNE

CASE NO. 8.

17-10-1980. A young girl aged 20 years came to my clinic with following symptoms and troubles :-

1. Acne on face, with white pus, hard swelling around with slight pain. Acne more on forehead, cheeks for the last one year.
2. Headache worse after meals, in occiput and left side of head, better by lying down, worse by motion.
3. Pain in eyes, worse after reading, darkness before eyes, balls of eyes were sore and painful when pressed with fingers.
4. Stomach bloated, distended, became drum-like after meals, great accumulation of wind in stomach, long, loud eructations, but had relief from belching.
5. Tongue coated in the morning, loss of appetite, stool and urine normal, legs became heavy, cold during menstruation.
6. Low B.P., pain in legs after exertion, thin, weak constitution, all pains were worse during day, liked sweets more.
7. Deep sleep, sleep full of dreams, fear of night, better by cool open air, cold drinks, worse by warmth;
8. Timid, yielding mood, weeps easily cannot drink milk, or digest butter.

Aphthae-thrush : Aphthae and thrush are the diseases of mouth, i.e., soreness, or ulceration of mouth. In other words, there are small grey, round, white spots or vesicles and as such ulceration is inevitable. Aphthae or thrushes develop after red granular eruption or red papillae on the tongue which turn into ashgrey ulcerated spots, surrounded by red, painful rings around canker, an eating sore or ulceration of mouth; stomatitis means inflammation of mouth.

Stomatitis with recurring ulceration in mouth. These are found under tongue, on the tip, near the route and sides of the tongue, inside lips on the soft tissues of the buccal cavity (mouth cavity). These aphthae cause great burning pain and great difficulty in talking, eating and drinking liquid with profuse slimy, watery, acrid, frothy saliva, white ulcers, pearl like blisters or ash-grey gangrenous spots with rawness, soreness and redness of whole mouth. White heavy-coated tongue with imprints of teeth on edges of the tongue. White blistexs in the mouth of little children with profuse watery saliva. The child cries and cannot suck the nipple due to acute pain in mouth.
